CONTEST OF THE YACHTS TO-DAY

An Unrivalled Scene in New York Bay-The Wind Unfavorable all Morning but a Start Finally Made.

NEW YORK, September 7 .- At an early hour this morning the river fronts were in-vaded by a small army of well dressed men, of whom carried overcoats and had marine glasses strung over their shoulders. Many ladies were with the men and the destination of all was the Yacht race by way of the numberless excursion boats which, gaily decked with bunting, rested town down to the Battery on either side of the city. At the foot of West Twenty-third street the police boat "Patrol" received a select assemblage. Further down from the foot of Beach street, the large ocean steamer mond" carried away a number of passengers. At the docks of the Iron Steamboat mpany were boats receiving large loads of sengers. One of the boats had on board passengers. One of the boats had on board a number of carrier pigeons which will be liberated at certain periods to bear information of the manner in which the race is progressing. The betting, which last night had changed in favor of the Genesta, shifted again this morning to 65 and 70 to 100 in favor of the Puritan. The weather thus far to-day, according to experts, favors the Puritan. She works better in the smooth a. Both boats, however, can take a better ow than five miles an hour. The program of the committee governing the international race for the American cup between the American yacht Puritan and the English yacht Genesta is as tollows: the English yacht Genesta is as follows:

The first race will be eighty statute miles to windward, or to leeward and return, from the Scotland lightship, if it is possible to make a cruise from that point. If not, from the Sandy Hook lightships. "B," of the international code, displayed from the judges' boat, will signify the former; "D" the latter. The start and finish of the contesting yachts will pass between the judges' boat and the light ship. The cuternark is to be kept on the starboard hand in rounding. The second race will be over the club course, length about thirty-eight statute miles. In this race the contesting yachts in starting will cross an imagin ary line drawn from the judges' steamer, anchored about a quarter of a mile below buoy No. 18, opposite Owis Head, L. L., and a mark boat anchored in shore from the steamer, thence (keeping outside of Fort Lafayette) to and around buoy No. 10, passing to the west and south of it, thence to buoy No. 18½, passing south of it, thence to buoy No. 18½, passing south of it, and north of buoy No. 5 off the point of Saudy Hook to and around Sandy Hook light ship, turning it from north and east, and then returning over the from north and east, and then returning over the same course to the finish line drawn between the home stake boat, which will be anchored abrest of and to the eastward of buoy No. 15, and that buoy all yachts must pass to the eastward of west bank brooks No. 9, 11 13 and 15 and to the westward of red buoys Nos. 101/2, 12, 14 and 16, both coing and returning.

The third race will be over a triangular coins forty statute miles long starting from the Scotland light ship. The contesting yachts will cross the hine at the start and finish in the same manner as in the first race. Rafts displaying red flags will be used to mark the turning points in the ocean races. The races will be started each day at as near 10:30 a. m. as possible.

VIEW OF THE CONTEST.

SANDY HOOK, N. J., September 7 .- The bay is dotted with yachts of every size and shape, and each one is crowded with people who have come to witness the race for the American cup. Early this morning the wind light from the east. It calmed however, and by this time (10 o'clock) there is hardly enough wind to fill a sail, but the prospects are that there will be wind enough for the race. The wind is now four miles an hour, and from the Weather hazy. The sea is smooth as glass. The yacht Puritan, in tow of the tug Luther C. Ward, passed out at 9:55.

SANDY HOOK, 11 a. m .- Yachts, steamers, steamboats, tugs, and salling craft of every description are going out toward the Scotland Light, the starting place. Never before in the memory of the oldest inhabitant was such a fleet assembled around Sandy Hook. The Genesta sailed out under mainsail, foresail, club topsail, jib and jib-topsail at 10:38. When outside the Hook she took at the look of t the Hook she took a tug boat for the The wind is now five miles a

It looks bad for the yacht race to-day There is little wind. The contesting yachts are still around the Scotland light. Such a fleet as is now assembled at Highland light has never been there before. The two sloops are ready. The wind is rather light. The weather is still hazy, but pleasant. The measurer of the New York Yacht

The measurer of the New York Andre Club gives the following as the measurement Club gives the following as the measurement of sailing length: Genesta feet; end of boom to tip of bowsprit, 140 5-10 feet. Gaff, 46 feet; waterline, 81 6-10 feet. The Puritan's measurements are as follows: From top mast head to deck 102 1-10 feet; from end of boom to tip of 102 1-10 feet; from end of boom to tip of bowsprit, 144 6-10 feet; gaff, 47 feet; waterline, 82 1-10 feet. She therefore gives the Genesta 31 seconds time allowance. The Puritan is being sailed by Captain Aubrey Crocker, Assistant Captain Joel Elsworth and twenty-two able-bodied seamen and the Genesta is being sailed by Captain John Carter and Mate William Hasgate, and fifteen British fare.

The wind continues light from northeast, weather hazy. The yachts are still at the light ship. It is doubtful if there will be changed to south-southeast and is increas-ing. The Genesta and Puritan are still around Scotland light. It is hard to tell if the yachts start. If they do start, it will be

THE START MADE. SANDY HOOK, 1:45 p. m .- The vachts have started in the international race for the American cup. The Puritan got off at 1:35, followed by Genesta at 1:36 p. m. The wind is light from the southeast.

2:30 p. m.—The yachts are now standing to the eastward and are still near the light ships. The Puritan is to the ndward and about half a mile ahead. With the present wind it is not expected that the race can be sailed much within the precribed time-seven hours or no race THE PRIZE CONTESTED FOR.

NFW YORK, September 7.—The cups for which the Genesta and Puritan are now contesting is held in this country by virtue of the sailing of the yacht America was won thirty-four years ago, and has never been re-captured by English lit was offered by the Royal Club in 1851 during the Club in 1851 during the World's Fair of that year, open to yachts from all nations. The race in which the America carried off the cup was sailed a America 22, there being eighteen entries. The America won by twenty minutes ahead of the best of the other vessels.

Damaging Weather in Dakota DRADWOOD, Dak., September 7 .- The unpleasant weather for the past two weeks cul-minated in a snow storm Saturday. The thermometer has ranged from 50° to 60°, and more or less rain has fallen daily. The out-look for grain is gloomy in the extreme. Four-fifts of all crops are cut, and the bulk is lying on the ground heating and growing.

many Unlikely to Do So.

MADRID, September 7 .- The Council of Ministers, with the sanction of King Alfonso, has framed and dispatched to the German Government an ultimatum requesting Germany to evacuate the Caroline Islands. Spain, in the meantime, will refrain from a material occupation of the islands, and thus affords a basis for further parleying. MADRID, September 7 .- Dispatches just received regarding the German occupation of Yap state that the Spaniards on the island had hoisted the Spanish flag and had lowered it at sunset for the night, as is customary with all nationalities, and that immediately afterward the German gunboat ran in landed marines and soldiers, hoisted the German colors and formally occupied the place, despite the protestation of the tire L. Spainards. Prince Bismarck has offered to withdraw the German forces from Yap provided Spain will not occupy it pending a diplomatic solution of the question as to Spain's claim over the island. Germany will acknowledge Spanish occupation of Yap, provided Spain proves that the Spanish flag had been hoisted on the island before the German gunboat had arrived in the harbor.

The excitement in Madrid over the affair has quieted down and everything was tranquil last night.

"Has the board decided not to remove Mr. Morrison?" was asked of Auditor Rice, just after the meeting. "It has not," was the reply, "and his case has gone over for a few days for consideration. The meeting this morning was simply to appoint a successor for Mr. Cottrell."

Mr. Downing is a native of Scott county, and afterward resided in Jackson, but twenty years and more of his life were spent uisvile, where he was known as a prominent and successful man, filling several positions of trust and responsibility. It is understood in this connection that Mr. Murphy has been approached indirectly by emissaries from the Coy element who represented that they had the confidence of the State officers, and that the latter suggested the propriety of a weakening on the 11 o'clock law, and that the saloons be allowed to keep open until midnight and then be promptly and effectually closed. Mr. Murphy is reported to have firmly declined officially recognize any rule but the 11 lock law. Friends of Colonel Downing are reported as saying that he would prefer that the saloons be not disturbed "inconveniently early," but that he will stand with Mr. Murphy for the enforcement of the laws.

COUNTY SETTLEMENTS. The Attorney-General's Opinion as to

Their Conclusiveness. State Auditor Rice recently addressed the following inquiry to the Attorney-General:
"Are the settlements made by the county auditor and the Auditor of State conclusive funds unlawfully deducted by the county auditor in the settlement made by him and withheld from the State?" Judge Hord this morning gave an opinion on the matter which covers the following points:

The Attorney-general gives it as his opinion that the county and State auditors in making such settlement exercise no judicial power, but act ministerially, and the settlements is not conclusive on the State. If any improper deduction has been made, it is the illegal and void action of the officer, which does not bind the State, and the State may recover therefor. To sanction and support any credit allowed in the settlement of any officer charged with the collection of the public revenue, the law entitling him to the credit must be shown. An estoppel can never originate against the State in the illegal and void act of an officer. Laches are never imputable to government. Officers proceeding illegally do not represent the State. The State is bound only by the actual power of an officer, and every one is chargeable with full notice of this authority. The State is not affected by the misfeasance, willfullness, laches or unauthorized exercise of power points: State is not affected by the inisteasance, whilm in ness, laches or unauthorized exercise of power by its officers or agents. The relation of principal and agent does not exist between public officers and the State as to acts unlawful or unauthorized. Saved in Samples. A merchant in calling attention to the economy which is practiced, as a wholesome result of hard times in the mercantile busi ness, says that there is no waste of goods Even "samples" are carefully saved. The salary of a clerk can almost be saved in which jobbers send in. One house in this city saves each year in samples about 20 bags of coffee, weighing 125 pounds each and worth 15c a pound, or $375. In the same length of time at least 200 pounds of teas will be received in samples. These saved will net 45c a pound, a total of $90. The same house has hearded entryled en has hoarded sugar samples to the amount of 35 barrels in a year. A barrel of sugar weighs 300 pounds and from the low grade made of mixed samples, 5c a pound is realized, making a saving on sugar of $525. From these three items alone, not to speak of rice, tobacco, dried fruit, etc., an annual saving of $970 is effected and with margins down to a paper edge, this is not to sneezed at.

I think it due to every man, woman and child in the city named Durand to make this correction. THE taxes levied by the tariff on the leading raw materials used in manufacture in this country brought last year about $13,000,-000. This is an insignificant amount that can be easily spared, and the cause of tariff reform could be profitably directed to working for the repeal of the laws that cause it. These are essentially protective taxes, not revenue, and are not needed for revenue. Their abolition would help all industries, and it should be brought about.

THE twin cities of the Northwest, Minneapolis and St. Paul, now boast of being the largest wheat market in the country. At Minneapolis the receipts for the crop year, which ended last week, were 32,000,000 bushels, an increase of 9,000,000 bushels over the year before. New York is the only city that received more than this, Chicago having been outstripped the previous year, while as said the combined receipts of Minneapolis and St. Paul exceeded those of New York. The shipments of flour from Minneapolis this year have been a million barrels more than

THE Brooklyn Board of Health has made the discovery that most of the beer faucets used in that city are made of brass, and the result is corrosion, so that copper and zine are formed in the beer drawn through them. The amount taken in one or two glasses a day, it is said, is not particularly injurious, but that in any considerable amount drunk it is, and the recommendation is made that all such faucets should be dispensed with. An order also was issued prohibiting the storage of soda water, mineral water and lager beer in tin-washed copper fountains, or in vessels where copper, lead, or other poisonous substances can come in contact with them, and drawing of them for sale or delivery through pipes, faucets or taps of copper or lead, or other poisonous substances, unless so lined that the beverages can not come in contact with the poison. This is something that could be considered with profit by boards of health of other cities, as the same condition of things as exists in Brooklyn probably prevails generally.

It is generally agreed among men who have lived long in New York, the Evening Post of that city says, that there is seen much less evidence of crime, proportion ately, now than was seen twenty-five years It is believed, too, that this is not merely a matter of lack of evidence, but a good citizen's vote. Mr. Denny is pledged decrease of crime, and the statistics of the police court bear it out. For the year ending with October, 1884, there were 74,647 arrests, which was 10,174 less than the number of arrests made in 1874. Here is an absolute decrease of 12 per cent, while there has been in the same time and provided for it and as a sign that in this an absolute increase in population of 25 per cent. In Brooklyn the same tendency is lawlessness there shall be not one cent conseen. In 1884 the arrests there were 26,119 contributed to the common fund to pay for while in 1874 they were 26,263, which means the expense it causes. Never was a camthat the proportion of arrests has in ten years paign more clearly defined; never was it less declined from one in every nineteen people to one in every twenty-four. In both cities and effect of a vote. The issue is sheer. it is claimed the police service is far more efficient now than it was then and hence figures bear out appearances that there is a steady improvement in public morality.

A FEW days ago the Washington correspondent of one of our morning papers reported a Down East democrat as "exploiting" a new theory of the purpose of President Cleveland in moving so slowly in the change of office-holders under his control. He said the President meant to form a new party of the moderate men of both of the old parties, cut his section of the democracy loose from the associations of the war and the time before it, and have a party that was hampered by no disloyal memories and could be weakened by no taunts or sneers at complacent records. We doubt if Mr. Cleveland has the length of head or the firmness of will to attempt so great an enterprise. But if he has, we don't see that he will not worthy of the efforts of the greatest statesman we have ever had, and a purpose worthy of an ambitious fit a man of such a caliber entertain. A party formed on the basis of putting aside the bitter memories and enmities of the war altogether, and acting only in "the living present" may not be a possible achievement of any genius or character just now, but it is a party that would fill a very obvious want, and do a very conspicuous service in holding the balance of power between the irreconcilable parties and forcing them to a moderation that in time would become the normal condition and leave nothing of the war behind but its beneficent results. But as we have said, we doubt if Mr. Cleveland has any purpose looking so far ahead, with so comprehensive a scope. He is much more likely to fall in with the bulk of the democracy and return to the "spoils system," a little moderated, may be, but just as little controlled by civil service

It would have been very easy for Bismarck o have said to the Spanish Embassador at Berlin: "We want a naval station and a colony in the Pacific Ocean, and the Caroline Islands are about the sort of thing, so far as we know: now can't we make some arrangement for a joint occupancy of the little archipelago of coral reefs and turtle roosts? You take a fair share of the four or five hundred, and let us have some for our uses." As Spain can have no possible use for all of them, or probably for any of them, in the next five hundred years such suggestion, we may reasonably suppose, would have been listened to favorably, or at least without an excitation of national enmity. It would have been the fair, square way to do, and the way that a man who meant to do honorably with a neighbor would have done. If Spain had refused to negotiate, the chancellor could fairly have said: "You have never attempted to colonize or even claim some of these vast number of ocean rocks. Let us leave to any power you please to say what you have a right to and what we may take without interfering with you." Thus refusal might have been less unreasonably followed by just such measures as the German admiral seems to have taken. But that didn't suit the peremptory tone of the big man's temper. He took the islands knowing Spain's claim to some of them, and then suggested arbitration, much as a highwayman might do who should snatch a passenger's hat and propose to leave it to the first man they should meet to say who owned it. This thing of claiming a man's coat and breeches to force him into a compromise that will lose the breeches, is an old trick of men and governments that think they are strong enough to defy justice and

The Issue Joined.

In Mr. Denny the republicans have an energetic, hard-working candidate, who does nothing by halves and who will push the campaign to its fullest possibilities. He is a good lawyer, has made a good city attorney and would make a good mayor. A self-respecting man, whose weight is upon the side f law and order, he becomes emphatically the exponent of these things in this campaign by reason of the uncompromising character of the republican platform and his own unreserved adherence to it. Mayor McMaster would have more fully, or rather more logically, embodied the issue, but whatever feeling may exist that the failure to make him the candidate weakens the issue, will disappear in the face of the square stand the republicans and the candidate States, a suit having been brought for that pur- they did choose have taken. If it is demonstrated that the Con- faction, as one calling for his flat decision stitution of the United States is such that the whether the city is to have some thirty or soils system can't be prevented by law, the forty thousands of dollars yearly in revenue next thing to do is to change the Constitu- or not. Mr. Denny's election in its significance is a sign of this, and the republican party's control of the Council as a fact necessary, for it can not be ignored by any voter. A vote that way means the securing of that amount of money for the city; a vote the other way means something worse than failing to secure it. With the issue drawn as it is, it means refusal as a policy to make the saloons contribute to the expense they cause the city, and it thus becomes a standing bid for their corrupt influence in politics. There may be hereand there a democratic candidate for Council like the present representative of the Tenth ward, Mr. Haugh, who, by his words and acts, is pledged to raise the revenue by taxing the saloons the full $100. Such a man it is safe to vote for: at least it is safe in Mr. Haugh's case, for he is trustworthy, and has been, besides, a most efficient councilman. But as a rule the democratic councilmen are drawn by the force of their party's position in this campaign to protect the saloons against this tax, and every voter should bring himself to look at this question thus squarely. Shall the city have this much needed thirty-odd thousand dollars a year, or shall it deliberately refuse it and enter upon a policy which pledges alliance with the most lawless and corrupt elements as potent factors in directing city affairs? This phase of the question leads also to another reason why Mr. Denny should have every to a strict enforcement of the law His opponent is vouched as having a blind eye for liquor law violations. That is why he is a candidate. He is pushed with the avowed purpose of standing as a safeguard between

A few years ago a specimen, which is said to have fetched $300 in New York, was found in this river near Smithville. During the low water from June to Novemper hundreds of men are engaged at the business of gathering mussels. It is said to be the best paying enterprise in that section of country

"Sing a Song of Six Pence" is as old as the "Sing a Song of Six Pence" is as old as the sixteenth century. "Three Blind Mice" is found in a music book dated 1609. "The Frog and the Mouse" was licensed in 1580, "Three Children Sliding on the Ice" dates from 1633. "London' Bridge is Broken Down" is of unfathomed antiquity. "Girls and Boys Come Out to Play" is certainly old as the reign of Charles II; as is also "Lucy Locket Lost her Pocket," to the tune of which the American song of "Yankee Doodle" was written. "Pussy Cat, Pussy Cat, Where Have You Been?" is of the age of Queen Bess. "Little Jack Horner" is older than the seventeenth century. "The Old Woman Tossed in a Blanket" is of the reign of James II, to which monarch it is supposed to allude.

FRESH FASHIONS.

the Rage Bustles Reduced -Woolen Lace-Velvet-Bead Trimming. [Philadelphia Press.]

The new materials for autumn and win ter wear are already displayed on the counters of our large dry goods stores. Infinite variety, harmonious blendings of dark, rich bright shades, and a fancy for rough-faced fabrics, are the signs which she who runs Looking closer it is evident that the reign of velvet and lace is to endure, and that combination suits will, if possible, be more fashionable than ever.

Very few suits will be made entirely of one fabric. Of all the fancies shown each has its matching cloth, and tailor-made suits are of a subdued stripe, plaid or check, in somber colors, with plain cloth matching one or other of the checks or stripes. In Paris the passion is for stripes—plain stripes, fancy stripes, Pekin stripes, narrow stripes and broad stripes in every possible combination of color and material.

The hue of the hour is bronze—all the ronzes, indeed-brown, copper and green. There is a new sapphire, so called, which is really the old gens d'armes, and this in combination with a brilliant copper tint, forms some of the most striking brocades of the

There is a noticeable falling off in the poplarity of garnet. The new reds are, for the most part, vivid in tone or dark with russet tints, like autumn leaves. Gilt is passe, still, golden tinges are many, especially in shot effects, and bronze d'or, the beautiful golden bronze, still holds its own.

The practical economist may congratulate herself on the fact that there will be no difficulty in making over last year's dresses. All dark, standard colors are worn—indeed, very few shades are even passe-while the infinite diversity of color combinations in fancy materials makes it easy to find something to go with anything and everything.

The fashion of woolen is to be greater even than it was last year. The sample books of returning buyers show hundreds of new fan-cies in these, most of them charming and many of them novel. The newest idea is an outcome of the passion for lace. By some magic of the loom a lace web is superimposed on the foundation, the effect being that of lace inserting on figures laid over the cloth. The lace may be cut away and lifted from the fabric; it is altogether distinct from the foundation on which it rests.

Woolen lace, it is prophesied, will have a great run. Worth and Felix are making emisaison toilets of this for their chateau customers. They-the toilets-are of the implest description; a round skirt of yak or llama lace over a foundation of French faille tull gathered in front and on the sides, and box-pleated at the back. The bodice may be of lace over silk, or silk trimmed with lace, but there is always a broad sash at the back, usually of moire, sometimes of velvet striped

The favorite French craze just now is for sashes. Whenever and wherever one can own it is worn. They form side panels, or are draped across the front of the dress, or, Whenever and wherever one can be loop and ends at the back. The new sashes are magnificent. Most of them are striped and in some satin, faille, plush and velvet all appear. Roman stripes and Oriental color blendings are prominent, and a popular fash-ion will be to illuminate a dark or black silk, with such a sash, using it as side panel or back, drapery and vest. The trimming of the season will be velvet. You can not possibly err in using it on any dress, either in contrast or in same color. The only question is plain or fancy velvet, and this is, of course, to be decided by the manner of cosume to be trimmed. Pentis, or valances, for the fronts of skirts are a revival under a new name. They are merely handsome tabliers, or apron fronts for skirts. Some of them reproduce the plush bayadere stripes of a few seasons ago; others are embroidered and others yet are the Ro-man stripes, which, as already said, bid fair to be so fashionable. Broche woolens are exquisite. Some of these have the flat ta-pestry stitches of last year, while others are embroidered by machine in raised frise loops, flowers and fruits in natural colors.

Matching cloth comes, of course, for combination.

The newest style is to have the bodice of the plain fabric, and use the figured for trimming and on the skirt. The princesse polonaise, which, when en train, becomes the princesse robe, is revived, opening over a petticoat front of fancy brocade. The robe is for rich silks and velvets, but the polonaise is likely to be much worn for street suits, and home toilets of the beautiful cloths and cashmeres are in vogue.

Bourettes, friezes, ali rough, shaggy effects, appear among the new styles. ny in bronze and brown has long silky locks not unlike those of a Skye terrier interwoven with its surface. Another novelty is moutonne, the name aptly suggesting the curled, fleecy effect.

Never before has there been so much variety and so much novelty; it would seem as though manufacturers, in view of the recent depression of trade, had made superhuman efforts to stimulate the taste, and open the pockets of buyers of every degree. The current rumor is that bustles are decreasing in size; still, all the latest foreign plates show the dress held out as though by a shelf at the back and give a show of ability to Punch's recent story of an infant which fell from an upper window of a house in London and was saved by falling on the bustle worn by a lady in the street below. Skirts are often cut three or four inches longer behind than in front to allow for the rise in the back.

The great novelty in trimming is beads made from cocoanut shells, highly polished, in black, gold, olive, bronze—in fact all colors. They are of exceeding light weight and are exquisite in effect. They are used like jet for embroidery and pendants, and are particularly charming when introduced as strands or tips in chenille fringe. The same material is made into ornamental clasps and buttons; indeed it is quite the latest success in Paris, and has already made the fortune of its inventor.

Mention has already been made of the new handkerchief dress. Two recent examples deserve mention. The one is an evening toilet deserve mention. The one is an evening toilet of lace over satin. The corsage is a low, tight-fitting, sleeveless satin bodice. Over this are draped two lace half squares, in soft folds, bertha-like, across the bust and back, the ends meeting on the shoulders, where they are held together by an epaulet of roses without foilage. The points of the half kerwithout foilage. The points of the half ker-chiefs fall below the waist back and front; and the front of the satin skirt is covered with a deep shawl point of lace to match that

French faille, with close-fitting basque high
to the throat. A kerchief of Roman silk is Impaired digestion is a fertile cause of nerve weakness and unnatural mental gloom, and a vigorous renewal of the action of the stomach is one of the surest means of invigorating and quieting the nerves. Insomnia, or si eplessuess, a form of nervous disease, is unquestionably benefited by sedatives, when it is prolonged or of frequent occurrence, but its permanent removal is more effectually achieved with the Bitters. TWENTY-EIGHTH OPENING AT EGAN & TREAT'S-FALL AND WINTER STYLES.

It would have been hard to find a bette day for the purpose tham that which greeted Egan & Treat's opening to-day, and a greater number of visitors have called than upon any former opening up to the same any former opening up to the same hour. In fact, these openings are unlike any other trade openings the city has ever seen. They are entirely free from the cheap advertising displays usual to store "openings." They are a generous and free spread of all that these experts can make known to the public of what is to prevail for the season in the various expression. can make known to the public of what is to prevail for the season in the various garments of gentlemen's wardrobes, together with an exposition of the piece goods and patterns out of which they are to be made. These semi-annual displays have grown into events of such interest as to demand some notice by the press. They have come to have somewhat the quality of old wine—improving by age—and to-day scores their twenty-eighth number in consecutive order.

Seeking the fountain of authority in the establishment touching the "mode" which the god of fashion has ordained for the present season, the following hints are given for the guidance of such as desire to pass muster in Dame Fashion's eye. Beforeenumerating in Dame Fashion's eye. Before enumerating different styles, however, we must pause to remark the vast and rapid development remark the vast and rapid development which the past few years have witnessed in Europe as well as America in the matter of artistic taste displayed in gentlemen's costumes. A glance even at the fashion plates to-day, in contrast with those of a few years gone by, shows how great is the change in this respect. The artistic element stands out in the present. A certain grace once lacking is now apparent. The beauty of dress depends upon its artistic curves, the harmonious blending of colors and on the freedom and motion that it does not impede. Now for a few of the reigning not impede. Now for a few of the reigning styles: THE WALKING COAT Is perhaps the principal garment to name as having the largest run last year and promises to be popular as ever in several modified forms—enough to dodge and leave out in the cold the former elever attempts at immitation by the hand-me-down clothiers. The one-button cutaway of last season will continue a favorite during the early fall season. The two and three button cutaways are made up with flaps at hips, while the one and four-button coats are made up without them. Outside breast pockets are the rule on all walking coats—in fact are indispensable if pockets are placed at hips and not in the plaits behind.

The English have long since worn these entaway coats for morning weddings and cutaway coats for morning weddings and this country is wisely beginning to follow. On some recent occasions East the four-button coat has appeared with vest of same material and pantaloons of dark striped cassimere. Of course in these cases the coats were from diagonal worsteds, edges bound, without flaps, but with outside breast pockets.

DOUBLE-BREASTED SACKS Are confined to goods of rough fabrics and generally worn for business purposes. This garment has always been a favorite for the winter and will continue to a limited extent the approaching season.

SINGLE-BREASTED SACK SUITS. The coat of this, closing three and four buttons, will be the popular thing just now, the three-button coat being the latest novelty; the edges double stitched about half an inch wide, seams either plain or welted and finished according to wish of customer or tests of the designer. taste of the designer.
PANTALOONS.

This garment will tend to slight increase of width, but the public will be a little slow to favor the change. Few will consent to go beyond 18 inches knee and 17½ to 18 bottom. Seams will be plain.

OVERCOATS.

The changes in sack overcoats are few, but quite important enough again to distance the large stocks of readymade of which the market is now stocked up. The cut of the approved garment is somewhat longer but not so shapely as heretofore. Stitching of edges, which had become popular, is falling away.

The surtout evercoat is gradually returning to favor with dressy gentlemen, both young and old.

DRESS SUIT. Very few changes here; the principal one is confined to the roll, which now terminates near the third button from the waist seam. White vests are invariably worn for dress, some from fine Marseilles of honey-comb pattern, while figured or quilted silks are much in demand.
